

DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION, CERTIFICATE

The world that we live in is increasingly characterized by diversity. This certificate is designed to foster an understanding of the historical, political, sociological and legal contexts within the United States and how these contexts impact issues of diversity. In this certificate each of these domains of diversity, and the intersections between them, will be interrogated and deconstructed for their individual effects and examine interrelatedness. This understanding of diversity will foster communication of complex ideas related to equity, teach strategies to negotiate issues of power, and position oneself to embrace inclusion and act as an ally/advocate for people in systematically marginalized groups.

The required credit hours are 15. Students need to complete the following courses:

- INDP 106 Racial and Ethnic Diversity in the US
- INDP 321 Minority Groups

AND 3 of the following:
